EXHIBIT SPONSORSHIP GUIDE

A decade ago, the Carolina Theatre of Durham's Civil Rights Committee, composed of community leaders and individuals with lived experiences fought for the desegregation of the theater, came together to ensure that the theater's history would never be forgotten through the creation of a historical exhibit called "Confronting Change."

"Confronting Change" shares the story of the youth protestors that successfully desegregated the Carolina Theatre in the 1960s after years of protest. The exhibit includes photos, news reels, and bios on the protestors and their experiences. In 2024, we will commemorate the 10th anniversary of the exhibit and its lasting effect on our community. The celebration will include several events leading up to the anniversary reception, which will include a documentary screening, reception, and discussion on April 17, 2024 at 7:00 pm.
